Diocese of Orlando Parishes Welcome Program to Help Parents of Addicts

Julia Hayden sat on the floor of her room sobbing and broken. Her son had just informed her he was using heroin. "In that moment, I realized I had been waiting for decades for him to hit bottom, so I could fix it all, make it right finally. Really, I had been living at bottom throughout his addiction," she said. She prayed and recalled reading an article about PAL (Parents of Addicted Loved ones) four years earlier - a peer-to-peer support group for family members with addicted loved ones. She visited the PAL website and drove 50 miles to the nearest meeting (Saint Thomas Aquinas Parish in Saint Cloud). "The PAL facilitator hugged me that night and told me that my journey of healing has begun," Hayden said.

PAL is a national organization present in 45 states. Family members and other 18 years of age and older and sober are welcome at the weekly meetings (in person or Zoom). Following a 12-week curriculum, participants are welcome to repeat the series as many times as they wish, and most do. "PAL goes with you and grows with you," she said. They don't offer advice and they don't judge. Instead, they encourage participants to seek trusted professional help. The free meetings are faith-based and begin in prayer. The program offers fact-based information, insight into understanding addiction, and offers coping tools and support. PAL helps parents understand the disease of addiction and the dis-ease that our loved one's experience. Currently, meetings are held once a week at Saint Thomas Aquinas as well as at Saint James Cathedral, Orlando. Hayden said PAL saved her and refers to the program as "God's red carpet to healing."

For more information regarding PAL or meetings, contact julia.hayden.palgroupvolunteer@gmail.com or call 518-951-9610.
